Drawings

The subject matter of this application admits of illustration by a drawing to facilitate understanding of the invention. Applicant is required to furnish a drawing under 37 CFR 1.81. No new matter may be introduced in the required drawing.

Note also that the drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims (37 CFR 1.83(a)). Therefore, the at least one receiving member being adjustable along the longitudinal axis (claim 1) and the support sleeve having air channels (claim 3) must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Specification

This application does not contain an abstract of the disclosure as required by 37 CFR 1.72(b). An abstract on a separate sheet is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Art Unit: 2854

Claims 1- 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Specifically, the disclosure fails to teach any specific structure for the receiving member being adjustable along the longitudinal axis to vary the distance between the receiving members (claim 1), and the support sleeve having air channels (claim 3). Since these are positively claimed elements, they must be supported by specific disclosure of operative structure.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1- 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically, the language “may be” (claim 1 lines 3 and 11) is not a positive claim language. With respect to claim 4, applicant claims two embodiments in this claim. Different embodiments must be claimed in different claims. This rejection could be overcome by limiting claim 4 to one embodiment and adding a new dependent claim 5 which recited the second embodiment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2854

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Crowley et al. (US 5,472,153).

Crowley et al. teaches a roll support apparatus having a holding device which meets the structure as broadly claimed. Crowley et al. teaches a holding device which includes receiving members 152 having two or more shoulders of different diameters and toothed elements 182 as shown in Figs. 17 and 18 of Crowley et al.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) a patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Crowley et al. (US 5,472,153) in view of Nelson (US 5,904,095).

Crowley et al. teaches a holding device having substantially the structure as broadly claimed. See the explanation of Crowley et al. above. Crowley et al. fails to teach the sleeve having air channels leading air to an outer surface of the support sleeve. However, Nelson teaches a printing cylinder having a support sleeve 22 which includes channels 36 leading air to the surface of the sleeve as shown in Fig.3 of Nelson. Therefore, in view of the teaching of Nelson, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the holding device of Crowley et al. by providing the sleeve as taught by Nelson for quickly replacing a

Therefore, the at least one receiving member being adjustable along the longitudinal axis (claim 1) and the support sleeve having air channels (claim 3) must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). printing sleeve in a printing press. With respect to claim 4, the use of reinforcing elements in the inner cavity of the support sleeve is conventional.

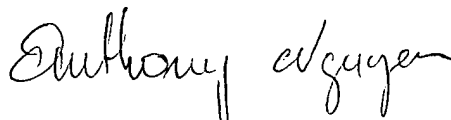

Conclusion

The patents to Schulz, Klein, Harb, Hutzenlaub et al. and Dawley et al. are cited to show other structures having obvious similarities to the claimed structure.
